Separate tables will be used, and the Players plan to hire a catering service. The banquet will be formal. Approximately 100 persons are expected to attend.

Committee members who are helping with banquet preparations include Linda Larson, Kathy Watkins, Graham and Scott Garner on the program committee, with Claussen and Mays assisting on lights. Judy Ardrey is in charge of program continuity. Pat Pickett is chairman of the decorations committee, with Steve Kluthe and Toni Zbranek assisting her. The present officers of the club will serve as hosts and hostesses.

Bookstore, Cafeteria, Library Announce Summer Hours

The bookstore, cafeteria and library will be available to students attending summer sessions at the College, but schedules will be varied somewhat from the present hours.

According to Mrs. Loretta Frazier, librarian, the library is open the year around. However, there is no plan for evening hours during the summer except on demand. Regular hours from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. will be maintained.

Bryan Bickle plans to close the cafeteria after May 29 and to reopen when football practice begins about August 19.

Dr. Paul Shipman, administrative assistant in business affairs, reports that the school plans to operate the cafeteria on an experimental basis during the summer session. It is definite that coffee, donuts and juice will be offered during the morning. Serious consideration is being given to serving lunches. The cafeteria will reopen on this basis on the first day of summer classes.

The bookstore will be closed June 3-5 to rearrange books and send books to the binders for repairs.

When reopening on June 6, regular hours will be from 6:30 through 11:30 and during the first two weeks of the summer session from 6 p.m. until 7:30 p.m.

After the first two weeks, anyone needing something from the bookstore at night may call Hass Oliver at MA 4-4144.

Spiva Contributes To Thespian Fund

George A. Spiva, Jr., of Knoxville, Tennessee, has contributed $500 to the College Players' 'Pot of Gold' fund.

This fund has been designated for student cultural enrichment on the upcoming USO tour. The group will use the money to attend cultural events along the way and during the week they will be on their own.

Nine students will be honored as "outstanding students" in the 1967-68 Crossroads. They were selected in a faculty poll taken by the Crossroads staff. Pictured above are Sue Ann Gulick, Peggy Chew, Linda Brown, Terry Helton, Rick Call, Dave Hokanson, Ray Mathis and Joe Schoeberl. The ninth student, John Arnoldy, was not present when the picture was taken. The students were nominated on the basis of leadership and extracurricular contributions to MSC, as well as academic achievement.

To the Students of Missouri Southern:

This past year has been one of the most enjoyable of my life. It has been a busy year enriched by the making of new friends and the working with old ones. It has been a year of learning not only from the courses at MSC but also, from experiences and the people encountered during the year.

I am taking this opportunity to thank the members of my Cabinet who worked so hard last summer to help me plan this year's activities. This was a dedicated group which deserves the recognition of the student body. I assure you that all the members contributed in some way in the accomplishments.

I would also like to thank this year's Student Senate. It is hard to find the words to thank such wonderful students. Without a doubt, these are some of the finest and most sincere people I have ever had the pleasure of working with. The proof of their tremendous school spirit and pride is evidenced by their sacrifice and hard work all year long. I know from working with other student body officers from Missouri colleges that our Student Senate excelled in all areas. Partial proof of this is the fact that the senate served as the president of the Missouri Association of Junior College Student Governments this past year.

I feel deep appreciation to a majority of the faculty who were helpful and understanding in striving for a working relationship between students and faculty.

There were few times that it was necessary for me to come in contact with the administration, but when the need arose, the door was always open — and the guidance was always there.

Finally I would like to thank all of the students here at MSC, first, because of their vote of confidence last year in the election, and secondly, because of the helpful criticism during the year which helped improvements to be made.

I leave Missouri Southern College with a feeling of pride, accomplishment and gratitude, because of the honor and opportunity bestowed upon me. I feel that the opportunities for MSC's future are limitless and that the executive officers for next year are more than capable and will strive to make MSC greater than ever.

Gratefully yours,
David Hokanson

Crossroads Honors Staffers, Announces Magazine Format

The Crossroads staff held their annual awards banquet Tuesday night, May 21, at the Rustic Inn, north of Webb City. Awards were presented and plans for the 1969 yearbook were discussed.

Judy Stockberger was honored as the outstanding staff member for the year. The group presented retiring art instructor Arthur Boles with a Cambridge Bible bound in brown leather. Boles has served 32 years as Crossroads sponsor.

Tom Holman, sponsor, was presented with a desk set consisting of an engraved letter-opener and scissors. Staff member Gloria Heisten was also recognized. Gloria received a "I" rating from the Missouri College Newspaper Association for her art work in advertising the Crossroads Ball.

The staff gave photographer Hal Wilder a world atlas to aid him in setting up Crossroads pictures. Sponsor Ellen Glenn was thanked for her help during the year.

Editor Ray Mathis announced plans for the 1969 yearbook. Instead of a single book, the staff will produce four magazines to be combined under a hard cover.

The magazine will appear at intervals during the year, with the first one appearing Homecoming week. The second magazine will be issued after the fall semester break, and the third will precede the finals week of the spring semester. The last issue will be mailed in the summer.

The late deadline of the final issue will allow the staff to include the closing ceremonies of the school year, and the graduating class.

The price of the Crossroads will not be included in the activity fees next year. Purchase will be on a subscription basis.

All interested students are urged to join the staff. Because of the unique nature of the publication, many feature writers will be needed along with the usual staff, according to Mathis.

Committee To Pick Films For New Series

The film committee is in the process of selecting the films which will be shown during the 1968-69 film series at MSC.

The committee includes Mrs. Joyce Bowman, instructor at MSC; Michael Braeckel, MSC student; Terry Brown, MSC student; Richard Eddleman, instructor at Webb City High School; Mrs. Dana Jones, instructor at Joplin High School; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Jones; Harrison Kash, MSC instructor; and Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Muenning.

The committee is considering films in eight categories.

In the first category, novels into films, the group will pick one of the following: "The Informer," "The Magnificent Ambersons" and "Oliver Twist."

Available films in the silent era category include "Earth Russian," "The Last Laugh," "Mother" and "The Passion of Joan of Arc."

The films in the third category, the Thirties I, include "L'Atalante," "A Nous La Liberte" and "Westfront."

From the fourth category, the Thirties II, the committee will choose one film. The selection will be made from "Alexander Nevsky," "Duck Soup," "Morocco" and "A Night at the Opera."

The British comedy will be selected from "Brandy for the Parson," "Genevieve" and "Passport to Pimlico."

The possible films in the Fifties category include "Hiroshima Mon Amour," "Ikiru," "Nights of Cabiria," "Sawdust and Tinsel" and "The White Shiek."

The two final categories are short comedy films and documentaries. The short comedy film category will feature W. C. Fields, Buster Keaton or Laurel and Hardy.

SNEA hopes that the fund will grow to the point where the Leadership Award will be one of the outstanding College awards. The first award will be presented next year.

Leland Easterday and Lloyd Dryer sponsor SNEA which now has over 150 members.

MSC Student to Attend Aspen School of Music

Jerilyn Farrar, freshman at MSC, has been accepted to attend the Aspen School of Music in Aspen, Colorado, for nine weeks this summer.

MSC's New Micro-Teaching Lab Helps Train Future Student Teachers

"Lights, action, camera — You're on!" These may not be the exact words used by MSC cameraman and assistant professor of education, Woody Mason, but the fact remains — MSC has a new micro-teaching lab which actually gives education majors an opportunity to practice teaching before a television camera.

The lab's video tape facilities were introduced this semester by the education department's division chairman, Dr. Charles Niess. The equipment is located on the main floor of the Science and Math Building. It consists of a DAGE closed circuit television camera, two television monitors and a video tape machine which is much like a regular audio tape recorder. The only difference is that a visual image is recorded instead of an audio one.

After the taping session, students can both see and hear their performance and its mistakes. Instructor of secondary education classes, assistant professor Sam Starkey says, "Given the proper amount of time, the student can correct any defect in presentation."

Mannerisms, eye contact, voice control, all go into what instructors call interactional analysis. This is but one of the ways in which the education department prepares its students for their first professional semester of student teaching.

The video tape facilities help the students and the student teacher assimilate the classroom situation. Class members confront their teacher with all kinds of problem situations. These range from throwing paper airplanes to smoking in class. This, Mason feels is necessary. "Forty five per cent of all teachers fired are fired because of disciplinary reasons," according to Mason.

For eight weeks, education majors have been spending five hours a week teaching in the Joplin-Webb City elementary and secondary schools. Consequently, students were already familiar with the typical classroom situation when the equipment arrived. Next year, however, the audio tape facilities will be used in the development of the teacher before he enters the classroom.

Clubs Choose New Officers

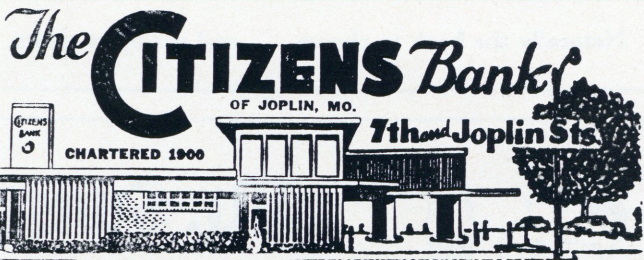

The Math and Engineer's Clubs of Missouri Southern College have elected their slate of officers for next year and have made tentative plans for the coming year.

The officers elected to the Math Club are Janice Smith, president; Bill Yust, vice president; and Debra Padtke, secretary.

In addition to electing officers at the regular meeting, the group voted to purchase a large movable blackboard for meetings.

In the Engineer's Club elections, David Sweet was elected president. Other officers include Greg Costagno, vice president; Billy Parker, treasurer; and Bruce Thornberry, secretary.

On the agenda for next year, the Engineer's Club plans to build and install a sign at the corner of Newman and Duquesne Roads. The lighted fiberglass structure complete with flower box will welcome visitors and students to MSC.

Computer Department Serves Two Purposes

The computer science division of the semi-professional and technical education department of Missouri Southern College fulfills a two-fold purpose. First, it is a training ground for computer programming technicians and second, it processes data for the operation of the college.

In its training capacity the division offers three Associate of Arts degrees in computer science.

The first degree is a general purpose computer curriculum. This curriculum provides the student with the computer programming knowledge and training to enter commercial business, industry and government agencies.

The second degree is offered in electronic data processing coordination. This prepares the student to enter employment data processing departments as an equipment operator or in general clerical work associated with the data processing function.

The third degree is computing analysis. This prepares the graduate to enter fields requiring scientific and engineering programming knowledge.

Basic courses in computer science will be offered this summer. Already the fall enrollment is expected to double from the number this year. In an effort to keep up with this overflow, day and night courses will be offered in September.

The general qualifications for entering computer science are basic math and, according to Bob Carpenter, department head, the "ability to think clearly."

Carpenter also commented on the need of computer technicians. "It is reported that 75,000 persons are needed this year, this figure is expected to double by 1970." Carpenter went on to say that the need for competent personnel in the Joplin area is growing larger. Many companies offer very lucrative salaries for computer programmers.

The other function of the computer science department is to process data for the College. Some of the work currently done by computer at MSC is the preparation of enrollment cards, class cards, class rosters, student schedules, grade reports and student transcripts.

The computer is also responsible for setting up a student information system and the calculation of student fees.

Plans call for the computer to take over payroll and the other bookkeeping chores of the College in the near future. In addition the department will expand its services to Spiva Library. There it will facilitate the coding, indexing and checking in and out of books.

Nurses Attend Dallas Meeting

Four members of the Eighth District of the Missouri Student Nurses Association, formerly called the MSC Student Nurses Club, attended the national convention of the Student Nurses Association, May 9-12, in Dallas, Texas. Representing the eighth district were MSC students Sue Brand, Mary Kaiser, Cheryl Seasholtz and Linda Warden.

Approximately 3,000 nurses attended the convention which involved nursing programs throughout the United States.

The convention held an election of national officers, the annual business meeting and various workshops. Speakers discussed student power and theories of patient care.

Peggy Chew Wins Journalism Award

Peggy Chew, co-editor of The Chart, has been honored by the Missouri College Newspaper Association. Peggy received an award for the Best News Story in The Chart's category, Group D.

Peggy also received two "I's" for editorial writing. Kathleen Bagby took two "I's" in news writing. Other students receiving "I's" in the competition are Mike Kelley, editorial writing; Linda Brown, human interest; Carla Rowe, editorial writing; and Gloria Heisten, advertising.

Several students also received "II's" and "III's" from the organization which is sponsored by the Missouri University School of Journalism.

Steve Lucas, Gary Broadway, Davina Baker, Bill Pearson and Stan Garber attended the fourteenth annual meeting of the Missouri Intercollegiate State Legislature (MISL), May 9-11, at Jefferson City. Pearson served in the Senate on the Ways and Means Committee. The other MSC students acted as Representatives and served on the House's Public Health and Welfare, Education, Ways and Means and Road and Highways committees. Missouri Governor Warren E. Hearnes addressed the opening session of MISL.

Junkins Takes Junket

Wouldn't you get satisfaction out of returning as an instructor to a college which had previously refused to award you a degree? This is the position in which Murrell Junkins, psychology instructor at MSC, finds himself.

After attending Joplin Junior College for two years, he found his grade point average was too low to graduate. Junkins' excuses are pretty standard: a late night job, a car which was his pride and joy and, at the end of the first semester, marriage. He feels he was lucky to even be able to get into a college of higher learning.

In spite of these early frustrations, Junkins was able to graduate from Kansas State College with a BS in education and to receive his masters degree with a psychology major there. In the meantime, he had taught in the Jasper and Newton County schools. Then in 1963 he returned to Joplin Junior College as an instructor.

Between terms of teaching at JUCO, he went to Florida during the summer of 1965 on a College Teachers' Research Participation Grant. In the fall of 1966, he was one of 30 instructors who accepted an invitation to participate in a National Defense Education Act Institute in guidance and counseling at California State College in Los Angeles. This was quite a step for the student who hadn't quite made the grade his first two years of college.

At Cal State he studied college-level personal, vocational and educational counseling three days a week. The other two days were spent in internship at Mt. San Antonio Junior College, a short distance from Los Angeles. Here he counseled individuals using closed circuit TV. In this way, a student and teacher could have a rerun of what they had discussed and could view themselves objectively.

Another of his responsibilities was to conduct a sensitivity group involving discussion of subjects which mattered greatly to each member of the group. Junkins says that sensitivity training is like a religious experience, except that rather than being between you and God, it revolves around a closer interaction between people.

In this group, as in counseling, Junkins came into contact with the minority group of students known as "hippies." He learned that there is a difference in those who use the unconventional garb and just want to evade responsibility and the hard-core "hippie" who really believes in love rather than hate and is willing to suffer to prove his point. Junkins had some unique experiences with these nonconformists.

Observing the work of the Student Council at Mt. San Antonio Junior College was of much interest to Junkins. Set up in a progressive framework, this group was in complete charge of the school's activity funds; and they also handled behavior problems of the school through a student court.

This past fall, Junkins returned again to MSC and is glad to be back to a life of more normal pace. It should be gratifying to students to know that even their most successful teachers may have had problems with grades at one time.

The Chart Picks Editors For 1968-69

Members of The Chart editorial staff for 1968-69 school year were selected recently.

Kathleen Bagby will serve as editor of the school newspaper.

Other editors include Peggy Chew, associate editor; Mike Kelley, feature editor; Linda Brown, news editor; and Jim Moss, sports editor.

Gary Baird will serve as staff photographer. Office manager will be Jane Betenbenner.

Jeb Prince and Diana Simpson will retain their current positions as circulation manager and advertising manager respectively.

Dean Announces Staff Changes

Dean Edward S. Phinney has announced four changes in the administrative staff for the 1968-69 year.

George Volmert, currently guidance counselor, will become registrar. Merrell Junkins, who is presently an instructor of psychology, will serve as acting director of guidance and counseling. Fred Cinotto will move from director of admissions to director of placement. Dr. Lloyd Dryer, leaving the post of director of guidance and counseling, will become school psychologist.

MSC Sociology Students Form New Organization

Another new club has been added to MSC's roster, as sociology students organize. Elmer Reid has been selected acting president of the group.

At a Tuesday night meeting the group chose acting officers, appointed committees and outlined some of the functions of the club.

Mary Routh was selected as acting secretary and Barbara Blackford was chosen acting treasurer. Ken Nowosky will be the club's representative to the Summer Cabinet.

The group plans to take field trips, host speakers, hold surveys and take a part in general school activities. The students will seek membership in the National Sociological Fraternity and the Missouri sociological organization.

At the meeting the group discussed offers from the University of Alcapulco for volunteer work outside the United States. A trip to Mexico is being planned for next summer, necessitating fund-raising activities in the coming year.

A constitution committee, a Greek letter committee and a telephone committee were formed.

The group is having a meeting June 21 on campus. Sociological majors and other interested students are invited.

Sociology instructors John Eli and Conrad Gubera are sponsoring the club.

Schools entered in the national meet may carry a squad from one to five players, with teams composed of three or fewer players being able to compete for individual medalist honors only.

Five linksmen from each school may be entered in each of the four rounds, but only the lowest four scores will be counted in the team scores.

The same four golfers who captured the state crown will be entered in the national tourney, in addition to one other linksmen. Entered for Missouri Southern will be Hoot Lawson, Scott Everett, Steve Carlson, Gary Borland and Bob Perrin.

Practice rounds will be played June 3, with a pre-tourney banquet slated to be held at 7 o'clock that night. Dave Williams, University of Houston golf coach, will be the guest speaker at the fete.

The four tourney rounds will be played June 4-7. Team and individual awards will be presented at approximately 2:30 o'clock the afternoon of June 7.

The first six teams in the tourney will receive team trophies, with individual trophies going to the tournament medalist and each member of the championship team.

Individual medals will be awarded to the members of the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth-place teams and to golfers posting the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth low scores among the field.

Southern captured the Missouri State title on April 26 at Lexington, Mo., rolling up a four-man total of 396, 12-over-par on the Lexington Municipal course par 32 layout for the 27-hole tourney.

Following Southern in the meet were Wentworth, 405; Kemper, 413; Florissant, 414; Missouri Western, 464, and St. Paul, 487.

The crown was the eighth in the last 10 years for Missouri, which was paced by Hoot Lawson's even par round of 34-32-30-96.

Other scores for Southern in the state tourney were Steve Carlson, 34-32-32-98; Gary Borland, 37-32-32-101, and Scott Everett, 32-32-37-101.
